Four types of home appliances: Recycled by the manufacturers

With the Home Electric Appliances Recycling Law taking effect in April 2001, four types of home appliances—air conditioners, TVs, refrigerators/freezers and washing machines/clothes driers—are no longer collected by the city. You are required to have an unwanted appliance taken away by an electronics retailer. Alternatively, you can carry it to a designated depot yourself.

How to dispose

● To ask a retail store for collection

Ask for collection either the store where you bought the appliance or are buying its replacement or a licensed collector. As a rule, you are required to pay collection and shipping costs in addition to a recycling fee. For details, ask the store or a licensed collector.

● To carry a disused appliance to a designated depot yourself

First, check the manufacturer and size (inch, literage) of the appliance. Second, fill out a home appliance recycling ticket at a post office, and pay a recycling fee there. Third, affix the ticket to the appliance, and carry it directly to either of the depots below.

Recycling fees (In the case of major manufacturers)

Air conditioners		1,620 yen
TV sets	15 inches or under	1,836 yen
	16 inches or over	2,916 yen
Refrigerator/	170 ℓ or under	3,888 yen
Freezers	171 ℓ or over	4,968 yen
Washing machines/ Clothes driers		2,592 yen
